In the interior part, the design was developed in such a way that there is a proper connection between the service spaces and the sitting areas to facilitate the customers and attendants commutes as much as possible.

Moreover, the design of an integrated and appropriate ventilation system for air circulation and smoke suction caused by smoking throughout the interior space was taken into account.

Finally, some of the prominent features of this project are the special design and placement of the stage in the center of the plan in order to reach the services and have a commanding view for the audience.
